The income tax probably will bring the new tariff law most forcibly to the attention of citizens. President Wilson and Democratic leaders in Congress believe, however, that the reduction of duties on clothing, foodstuffs and other necessaries of life, and the complete removal of the duty from many like articles, will eventually bring a reduction in the "cost of living" without materially affecting business prosperity.

Until Conditions Are Adjusted at Ports of Entry, Former Tax Will Apply.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] Washington, October 3.—In bond and in ships lying outside various United States ports with cargoes, ready to take advantage of the reduced rates of the Underwood-Simmons tariff law. the Treasury Department estimates there are goods and merchandise valthere are goods and merchandise val-ued at $100,000,000. Three-fourths of this cnormous sum will enter through the port of New York, the remainder being scattered among the ports of Boston, Philadelphia, Baltimore and

From the moment the law became effective all merchandise was subject to assessment under the rates of the Democratic tariff. As a matter of fact, however, these rates will not be collected. The government always takes the advantage to make sure that its revenues are properly collected, and no chances of loss under the new bill will be taken.

Benefits Are Delayed.

Not until the collectors throughout the country are thoroughly posted with regard to the new law and the detailed regulations of the department detailed regulations of the department have been received by collectors in the remotest portions of the country will importers receive the immediate and direct benefit of reduced rates. Collectors have been instructed to continue assessing the duties under existing law, withholding final liquidation until a later period to be fixed by the department. Through this plan the government will protect itself and the importers' money will be tied up until such time as the department may order rebates to be paid representing the difference between the old and the new law.
